

Commonwealth Seeks New Decision

HARRISBURG, Aug. 22 (P)—Attorneys for the Commonwealth Telephone Co. today asked the Public Utility Commission to reverse a decision of one of its examiners and accept testimony on plant costs in a disputed rate case.

"The testimony would show that the fair value of the company's property is 12 to 15 per cent higher than the original cost," said Philip Price, counsel for the Dallas, Luzerne County, firm.

"The original cost is not the proper basis for determining the rate increase," he declared. "The Public Utility Commission should reverse the hearing examiner."

Today's hearing was called after a PUC examiner in Wilkes-Barre rejected the firm's proposal to submit reproduction costs in a review of the rate case ordered by the State Supreme Court.

Increase
 A $300,000 rate increase went into effect for 23,000 Commonwealth consumers on Nov. 10, 1955.

The Supreme Court neither approved nor rejected the increase allowed by the PUC but said evidence presented by the company at hearings did not justify all commission findings.

Price told the PUC that consideration of plant costs is "not only justified but is required to see if the figures are accurate and should be used."

He said the Supreme Court order allowed presentation of any testimony which would help the PUC in arriving at a decision.

But former Gov. Arthur H. James, counsel for a group of complainants, contended the Supreme Court order restricted further testimony to three questions.

He outlined these as payments made by Commonwealth to affiliates, propriety of stockpiling equipment and the rate of return fixed by the PUC on Commonwealth's investment.

The PUC took the arguments under advisement.

Commonwealth serves subscribers in Bradford, Columbia, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Schuylkill, Sullivan, Susquehanna, Tioga and Wyoming counties.

Commission Sets Hearing Date

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (P)—The Power Commission today set a hearing to start here Sept. 13 on the request of Scranton-Spring Brook Water Service Co., Wilkes-Barre, Pa., for an order directing Tennessee Gas Transmission Co., Houston, to supply it with natural gas.

The Wilkes-Barre company proposed to construct facilities estimated to cost $1,603,000 to enable it to serve areas in Wyoming, Lackawanna and Luzerne counties in Pennsylvania with natural gas in lieu of the present artificial gas service.

Meyner Prepares Special Message

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 22 (P)—Gov. Meyner today announced he will send a special message to the New Jersey Legislature when it meets Sept. 17.

The governor told a news conference the message would deal with matters which he feels demand immediate attention from the Republican-controlled Legislature.

Advertisement Has Setting In Poconos

A FULL PAGE advertisement appearing in several nationally distributed magazines has its setting in the Pocono Mountains.

Two-thirds of the ad is devoted to a picture taken at the Fred Middaugh lodge near Dingmans Ferry. It shows three men, Lucian Locke, John Edroney and Dewey Kingston Jr., all residing in the Dingmans section, just off a patio that extends out from the Middaugh cottage.

Locke is at the left standing over a basin of water with a towel in his hand. Edroney is seated, holding a glass in his hand and Kingston is leaning against a tree. There is an open fire nearby. Leaning against a stone and wooden pillar are three fishing poles, indicating the men had been out on the private lake that forms part of the background of the photo.

The picture is captioned "Day's end . . . good friends . . . and Early Times" and was taken by Arnold Neuman, celebrated New York City photographer, late last Spring.

A friend of Locke who works for the Ruthrauff and Ryan advertising agency in New York conceived the idea of the lob-cabin-by-a-lake theme for an advertisement ordered by a whisky manufacturer. He and Neuman traveled 1,200 miles throughout the Catskills and Adirondacks in a futile attempt to find a cabin by a lake.

The two men, exhausted and disgusted, came to the Poconos, sought out Locke and soon were on their way to the Middaugh lodge, which is located off the old road between Dingmans and Milford.

Upon arrival there, the men found the site exactly as it had been sketched from imagination back in New York. The setting was perfect, even to the nearness of the lake to the log cabin. Locke, Edroney and Kingston were recruited as models, the photographer snapped his picture and two months later the advertisement reached the public print.

The ad appears on Page 58 of the Aug. 20 issue of Life and will be repeated in Look and Sports Illustrated.

Two Property Deeds Filed

DEEDS filed yesterday at the office of Floyd Butz, register and recorder, showed these property transfers:

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey H. Strohl, Polk township have transferred title to a tract there to the Bethlehem Authority.

More than 800,000 couples make applications to adopt children in the U.S. each year. There are about 90,000 children available.

SUGGESTION AWARDS totaling $515 were awarded last week to Tobyhanna Signal Depot employees pictured above for suggestions which will represent an estimated savings of $24,840 per year. Calvin Pryor, Tannersville and Edwin Kobesky, Scranton, hit the jackpot with their joint suggestion for a method improvement for repairing and adjusting crystals. Each received a check for $170.00 for their idea which will save Uncle Sam $22,830 per year. Other award winners are first row, left to right: Joseph J. Olshefski, Dickson City; Calvin I. Pryor, Tannersville; Violet Nale, Gouldsboro; Mary S. Lawler, Tobyhanna; Mary F. Dougher, Carbondale; Thomas Fritz Jr., Audenried. Second row, left to right: John W. Schuler, Scranton; Raymond L. Fedor, Wilkes-Barre; Edwin F. Kobeski, Scranton; Fiore Casella, Old Forge; James K. Meadows, Tannersville; James Kilker, Olyphant. Third row, left to right: Leonard W. Thomas Sr., Scranton; Roman J. Lopatto, Swoyerville; John A. Kavitski, Hazleton; Victor A. Tarutis, Wilkes-Barre; John J. Buckley, Scranton. Colonel Robert C. Angster, depot commander, is pictured in the first row, fourth from left.

Reporting Of Speeding Violations And Convictions Is Made Mandatory

Early this year, when Gov. George M. Leader first announced his new program for graduated penalties for convicted speeders, The Daily Record appeared to be in the minority camp when it took sides with the governor in a controversy that soon arose.

While this newspaper did not attempt to pass judgment on Mr. Leader's new system, it felt the former automatic 90-day license suspension law was not the whole answer and solicited the support of motorists in giving the new program a fair test.

In setting up his system varying from a warning for the first offense to a 180-day license suspension for third and subsequent convictions, Gov. Leader termed it "a more equitable system of penalties while maintaining our excellent highway safety standards."

It was obvious right from the start that some changes were going to have to be made in the program as time passed and weaknesses cropped up, as they have a habit of doing.

Now the State Revenue Department has taken steps to plug a major loophole found not only in the current program against speeders but one that plagued past programs as well. By distributing a standard arrest form to all Commonwealth law officials and by making the reporting of all speeding violations and convictions mandatory, it has added needed teeth to the program and made it virtually escape-proof.

The State Police and many Commonwealth magistrates, aldermen and justices of the peace have been dutifully reporting arrests and convictions to the Revenue Department all along. But some of the local authorities have not.

Thus, a driver living in an area where the local officials did not report his transgressions to the State indefinitely could continue to drive and jeopardize his fellow Pennsylvanians, while a motorist caught speeding by State Police or conscientious local officials and convicted, would suffer the full penalties of license suspension or revocation.

As long as the reporting of these cases remained within the loose discretion of local authorities, those who didn't follow through with the reports nullified equity for all our citizens under this program.

Six months is too short a period of time in which to pass absolute and final judgment on the effectiveness of the new program. There has not been time to weigh out court appeals and court rulings on license suspensions, the place where the preceding system broke down.

But there can be no argument on Revenue Secretary Gleeson's new reporting order. It removes the possibility of an erring motorist's escaping from the provisions of the speed law enforcement program in effect in Pennsylvania.

Only by making it virtually impossible for even a few consistent offenders to by-pass state penalties can any program be truly effective.

Schools Expect Record Enrollments At Opening Of New Term Next Month

School bells will soon be calling boys and girls back to classes, and youngsters will be giving out with familiar expressions that add up to something like, "Where has the Summer gone so quickly?"

More children will be entering schools than ever before. The growing population, combined with almost uninterrupted prosperity since the start of World War Two, accounts for the record school enrollments.

New buildings are going up to meet the need for more classrooms; small school districts are merging into larger units to provide educational facilities equal to those offered by the cities, and more teachers are being trained and higher wages are being paid in joint efforts to overcome the ever-growing shortage of instructors.

Without a good education, today's youth faces a tremendous uphill battle in competing for a livelihood. Some training beyond high school is almost an economic necessity in this modern world. College, trade school, business school or other similar training is the means which young people rely on to climb to a higher position in life.

In this connection, it is interesting to note that deans of 60 liberal arts colleges convened recently to seek a possible method for meeting the problem of crowded colleges. Reducing the courses to three years and lengthening the college class day were the best solutions propounded.

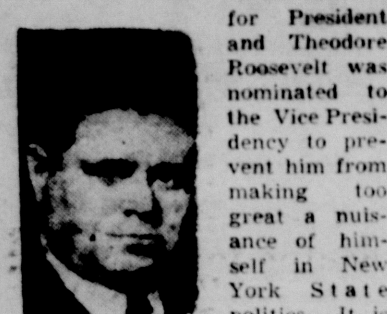

Their proposals assumed every college would continue to expand its facilities. But even with expansion, the institutions will be hard put to accommodate qualified students seeking entrance for at least the next ten years, when the pressure of numbers is expected to increase.

The deans' proposals should be studied further and then put into effect if that is the best possible method of solving the crisis. In the meantime, our colleges should proceed without delay with sound programs for expansion.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Opposition To Nixon Has Many Motives; Attacks Indirectly Aimed At Eisenhower

The Vice Presidency is not more important today than it was when William McKinley ran for President and Theodore Roosevelt was nominated to the Vice Presidency to prevent him from making too great a nuisance of himself in New York State politics. It is no more significant today than it was when Calvin Coolidge was nominated because he put down a police strike in Boston, Massachusetts. Those who are so excited this year about this secondary position are stimulated by Eisenhower's ill health which may or may not continue. The Democrats can only be moved by the truism that all men are mortal and that ill health is not the exclusive characteristic of Republican Presidents, although all the Presidents who have been assassinated were Republicans. Adlai Stevenson was correct in his attitude when he removed President Eisenhower's health as a campaign issue.

Richard Nixon is one of the few Vice Presidents who have been taken very seriously. Most Vice Presidents are ignored in or out of office. Who remembers Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana, for instance? He was once Vice President of the United States, but why, I do not recall. Nixon, however, has left an imprint as a member of Congress and as Vice President. He speaks things and does things and whether one agrees with him or not and whether one likes or dislikes him, nobody can ignore him. The Democratic Convention proved that, paying more attention to Vice President Nixon than has been usual in an opposition convention.

The leading Democrats know that Vice President Nixon has not been President's Eisenhower's alter ego. Eisenhower has organized his office on the efficient basis of an army general staff with Sherman Adams as Chief of Staff and a large body of specialized experts as assistants. However, in the Eisenhower Administration, the Vice President has been an active member of the Cabinet and of the National Security Council, presiding over these bodies in the absence of the President. The Vice President has also been sent to various parts of the world to represent the President and has been used in Washington to welcome and entertain foreign guests of the President. Under the staff system of the White House, it has been Sherman Adams, not Richard Nixon, who acts for the President.

It is likely that some of these new roles for the Vice President, initiated by President Eisenhower, will be continued by his successors, because it is logical that the Vice President should share some of the President's load if he is a suitable person for that purpose. Certainly, it is not expected that Kefauver would like to be a gavel-pounding dummy.

The opposition to Nixon has many motives, some of which are obvious. His activities in pursuit of Alger Hiss, when Nixon was a member of the House Committee on un-American Activities, won him a host of friends and admirers among the anti-Communists, but also brought him many enemies among the friends of Alger Hiss and among those who felt that the Hiss Case was used to damage the reputation of President Roosevelt. Nixon was projected into the 1954 Congressional campaign after the Republicans felt that they had been irreparably damaged in that canvass. He went into the fight as Harry Truman did in 1948, hitting hard and in all directions. The Democrats had taken the Eisenhower attitude of being above party seriously and expected that no fight would be left in the Republican Party. They took the view that it made little difference to Eisenhower whether Republicans or Democrats were elected to Congress. Nixon was a surprise. Although he did not win the Congress, he cut Republican losses and emerged as a leader.

But the attacks on him are really indirect attacks on Eisenhower. However, as the Democratic Convention proceeded, the attack on Eisenhower became increasingly more direct and indicates that the campaign will be sharp and focussed and the target will be Eisenhower. All the talk of the importance of the Vice Presidency in the Democratic Convention was designed originally as an attack on Nixon, but it began to look as though the Democrats had no arguments against Eisenhower and took a lesser target. Stevenson hit at Eisenhower in his acceptance speech.

The open convention at Chicago will not affect the Republican situation at San Francisco because according to information that reached me, Nixon has a pledge of 900 votes which, of course, is more than enough.

their "lucky city." It's also called the Windy City.

It comes to mind what little attention the public pays to party platforms. Never have so many said so much to so few.

Two Mexican brothers covered 3,500 miles in 82 days on a bicycle trip from Mexico City to Toronto, Canada. To them the U. S. must have seemed a mighty long stretch in the road, mostly uphill.

max. Like an old revival after a who-dunnit.

There was an air of optimism at the Democratic convention. It made you think of "Happy Daze Are Here Again."

The Chicago stockyards district was the right place. That's where they heard beefs.

The Democrats call Chicago

You're Telling Me

—by William Ritt

You could tell the Democratic convention was wide open. Some delegates couldn't find where they sat and others couldn't find where they stood.

With the Republicans things are different. It's all for one and one for Herter.

As far as the TV audience is concerned, the Republican convention amounts to an anti-climax.

Raising Children Is Fun For Wise Parent

In addition to the fun of raising children, there are times when parents wonder about their own competence for this hardest of all jobs. At such times—don't let on!

When a jar of roots, grass and hopping toads turns up on Johnny's window sill, frightening you out of a housekeeping reverie—don't let on. This is one of those "he's all boy" moments.

Or the old suit box under his bed turns out to be a new house for three pet snakes—and this unnerves you—don't let on. The child is interested in nature study. "The snakes ain't poisonous, Mommy!" They are friends. You want your boy to grow up friendly? Of course not.

Or when his "manners" are so endearing at home, where none but family eyes can commend, yet so hideous when Johnny confronts a passel of visiting in-laws—and you could shake him 'til the marble collection in pockets rattled—Don't let on. The child is interested in nature study. "The snakes ain't poisonous, Mommy!" They are friends. You want your boy to grow up friendly? Of course not.

And speaking of clothes, if the clean pajamas never seem to leave his dresser drawer, if at bedtime he forgets to take off his socks, brush his teeth, take a bath (but Mommy, I just HAD one a few days ago) and if he wears stains, mud, sand, and dirt as badges of a full and courageous life—don't let on. There is a challenge here which will sharpen such inventive powers as you command. Like hiding any dirty garments he is induced to shed, until social pressures force him toward a clean set. Be not dismayed, or if you are—don't let on.

Later, when he becomes permanently affixed to the phone, the car, the phonograph and the anchor position at school—don't let on. Maybe he's a "late starter." Maybe he will invent a priceless contrivance to make laziness profitable. Don't be discouraged—or if you are, don't let on. Next year, instead of what he seems to be now, he'll be a ball of fire—energetic, interested in everything, maybe even in school.

And then another day will come. No more children at home now. Turned out awfully well, didn't they? Made you proud and happy and a little sad that they aren't children once more? How much more you would enjoy them, how much time you would give them—if only they could fill the window sills with frogs and minnows and cookie crumbs and bottle caps. Even a few garter snakes, small ones of course. You miss them unbearably sometimes—but don't let on. Have a breather, take some trips, enjoy yourself. Soon you'll have grandchildren in need of baby-sitters. If you have much free time—don't let on!

At the country estate of a distinguished Doubleday editor, a small boy's head appeared over the fence, and a meek voice inquired, "Please, Mr. Beechcroft, could I have my arrow back?"

"Certainly, my boy," responded the editor with that spontaneous love for the young that has made him famous. "Where is it?" "I think," said the small boy, "that it's stuck in one of your cats."

Nixon Clinched Nomination Without Support Of Chiefs

San Francisco, Aug. 22—Vice President Nixon's renomination was a clinch from the start of this convention, even if party chiefs hadn't rallied over-whelmingly behind him.

That clinched his victory. But he could not have been licked anyway. The Californian was ready for any challenge from any quarter. He took no chances on a slip-up or setback. He had his own high-powered steamroller going full-blast to meet any contingency.

As one exuberant assistant proudly expressed it, "We've got these delegates covered like the dew does Dixie."

Every delegate and alternate to the convention has either been seen personally by Nixon or has heard from him directly in some other way. Perhaps even more important, they have received telephone, telegraph and other messages from friends and businessmen back home urging unwavering support of Nixon.

This potent technique is almost an exact repetition of that used by former Governor Thomas Dewey to twice win the presidential nomination; the second time despite losing the previous election.

Nixon must have studied those convention successes thoroughly. And from his close ties and frequent talks with Dewey before and throughout this convention, Nixon must also have gotten much valuable advice and guidance. For his organization and tactics are very similar to those with which Dewey made political history.

However, there is one significant difference.

New Alliance—A key leader of this high-powered Nixon organization is Tom Coleman.

A Wisconsin manufacturer and political power, Coleman was a top strategist of the late Senator Robert Taft, chief Dewey rival for the presidency, and the man whom the New Yorker also defeated in the 1952 convention when he directed President Eisenhower's nomination battle. Coleman is a leading backer of Senator Joe McCarthy, and is in the forefront of the bitter GOP primary against Senator Alexander Wiley.

At San Francisco, ardent-Taftite Coleman and once-bitterly-opposed Dewey have worked hand-in-glove to ensure Nixon's renomination.

Operating center of this drive is Room 114 of the Mark Hopkins Hotel. This room is under Secret Service guard around the clock. Only certain individuals can enter it, and then only after careful scrutiny and identification.

In Room 114 are detailed files on every delegate and alternate to the convention. This extensive information includes business and banking connections and associates, church affiliations, clubs, other organizations, entertainment preferences, and political ties.

Anybody who wanted to know what the well-dressed school-ma'am will wear during the coming education-

Customers got a special "preview" of the latest styles for teachers.

Models were Lois Shellenberger and Peggy Biggs, both teachers down in the Lansdale region. A little unwilling at first, the girls agreed to show off their new outfits after someone insisted they had to get the "male point of view," too. Consensus of opinion among male customers: Mighty pretty schoolma'ams. And the dresses were okay, too.

Monroe County Court Rules Harris Not Guilty Of Contempt

Judge Davis Dismisses Case Against Mayor

JUDGE FRED W. DAVIS ruled yesterday that Stroudsburg burgess Hal H. Harris was not in contempt of court when he directed traffic onto Ann St. last week.

The judge made the ruling in dismissing a "show cause" action brought by J. Joseph McCuskey, attorney for William Tarr. Tarr's complaint said that Harris had violated an original agreement—made June 14.

That agreement said that the burgess could redirect traffic on Thursday, Friday and Saturday between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. from June 1 to October 15 but that he couldn't do it on any other day or during any other months.

Complaint

Last Monday and Wednesday (Aug. 13 and 15) Tarr complained that Harris was causing traffic to go down Ann St. — truck traffic, that is. Ann St. residents claim that the heavy truck traffic damages their homes, streets and foundations with its rumble.

In an order issued after hearing both sides yesterday, Judge Davis said: "And now, August 22, 1956, rule to show cause why defendant should not be adjudged in contempt of court dismissed and costs are on the defendant."

Harris had to pay the $18 costs. Immediately after the hearing, Burgess Harris said he was ordering his attorney, Harold C. Edwards, to initiate a petition to the court asking for amendment to the June 14 order.

The burgess said he would ask the court to let him (Harris) "run traffic in the borough of Stroudsburg as it should be run six days a week instead of part-time, in order to protect Main St. merchants and resort proprietors in the area."

"I have the legal right under the law to do so," Harris said last night.

Mrs. Barton Reads Story

MEMBERS of the Pocono Mountains Writers' Workshop, meeting Wednesday night at the office of the President John M. Price, South Stroudsburg, heard the completed story by Mrs. Ruth Barton, "The Lost Mine of Lonesome."

The young writer said she had decided to use the short-short form as a possible vehicle for her number. In a very small compass of words, she led her hearers through a maze of moralistic thinking that influenced her chief character to conceal the mouth of an ill-starred mine behind a massed arrangement of rose-bushes.

William P. Deering, who is working on a story based on deeply inbred superstitions in the New England fishing fleets, read a section of his production, which is taking the proportions of a novella.

Oliver Wilson announced his intention of dropping his digression into the small story field and working on an historical novel with its locale set at Hairy Hill, Monroe County. William H. Hay has done some collaborating with Wilson on this work.

The group voted to meet on each second Wednesday night, beginning Wednesday, September 5.

Kahn Major Person At Convention

By Arthur Edson

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 22 (AP)—President Eisenhower is here. Almost his entire Cabinet is here. And maybe most important of all, Irving B. Kahn is here.

The electronic truth is, if Irving B. Kahn falters, the Republican National Convention literally will be speechless. And the same was true for the Democrats in their convention last week.

For Kahn is president of Teleprompter Corp., and whereas most people must wait patiently to see bigwig politicians during hectic times like these, Kahn illustrates and brings up to date an old aphorism. It now reads:

If you build a better teleprompter, the whole world, including the President's Cabinet, will beat a path to your door.

Kahn's door is 221 at the Mark Hopkins Hotel, and when this reporter drifted in, here was Secretary of Commerce Weeks, standing in front of a practice teleprompter, reciting his speech to an empty hotel room wall.

Weeks finished, and a man with a stopwatch said: "four forty-five. Ought to cut it to four minutes. Can't you talk faster?"

Kahn escorted the press to the adjoining room where a young man was banging away on an oversized typewriter. The results came out in letters three-fourths of an inch high on a continuous roll of paper, ready for threading on the teleprompter.

"Twenty-nine speeches today," Kahn said, and then hustled away to greet a newcomer with: "How are you, Mr. Secretary?"

Secretary of Labor Mitchell said he was fine, and the little bedroom turned workroom soon was filled with distinguished guests.

Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey arrived. Looked cool. Seemed sure he remembered to lock the money up tightly before he left Washington.

Secretary of Defense Wilson came in. Rummled as usual. Cigarette dangling as usual. Someone hurried up to Wilson and said: "Hit the high points hard. Lots of umph in it," Wilson grunted something like, "umph."

Postmaster General Summerfield wandered about the room, staring moodily at his speech. "Look," he said to a passing secretary, "read this sentence for me. Does it make any sense at all?"

Drifts In

In between greeting guests, lining them up for rehearsal and making corrections in their talks, Kahn would give off teleprompterisms which were duly recorded and are now passed on:

Kahn worked for a television and movie company after leaving University of Alabama. Now 39. His big idea supplied by actor who apparently had trouble remembering his lines. Why not, he asked, have a revolving roll with the lines printed on it, a perpetual, silent prompter?

TV company wasn't interested. Kahn was. Actor's name? Fred Barton. He's now a teleprompter vice president.

Here Kahn grabbed the phone. "Room service," he said, "throw together some sandwiches — anything you got — and some coffee. And hurry. Never did get time to eat that breakfast you sent up this morning."

Went to Chicago conventions four years ago. Noticed that Herbert Hoover had been quoted as saying his eyes were bothering him.

Kahn had teleprompted 47 of the 56 major speeches. Now both parties hire him for the whole shebang.

Stock Market Coasts To Gentle Decline

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (AP)—The stock market coasted into a gentle decline today in its slowest trading session in nearly two months.

It was the market's sixth successive downturn and followed a sharp shakeout yesterday which saw key issues tumble three points or more.

For a half hour or so after the opening it looked as if the market had turned around. Plus signs popped up in all major divisions and trading went ahead at a fast pace. Then activity eased off, and the whole market bogged down with only the rails putting up any real resistance. Decline extended to more than three points.

Many key issues finished at or near their lows for the day.

There were no spectacular developments on the news front to account for the market's action. Prospects of a further tightening of interest rates continued to loom in the background, and latest reports on the Suez Canal conference were far from encouraging.

Unusually Thin

It was an unusually thin market. Only 1,697 stocks were traded. Of these, 243 advanced and 485 declined. Volume came to a scant 1,570,000 shares—lowest since June 25—and compared with yesterday's 2,410,000. Five stocks made new 1956 highs and there were 35 new lows.

Glenn Martin headed the parade of most active stocks for the third straight day this week, up  $\frac{1}{4}$  at 37 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 33.200 shares.

Of the day's 16 most active stocks only four advanced and two maintained their previous positions. The ten others finished lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost $1.00 at $183.80. The industrial component was off $1.50 at $266, the rails off 40 cents at $135.40 and utilities down 50 cents at $71.60.

Republicans Plan To Keep Step

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

Under generalized attack by the Democrats in virtually every governmental field, the Republicans have replied they intend to keep on doing like they've been doing.

Outside of verifying promises about cutting taxes on lower incomes and small business, the Republican platform adds nothing new to the party program.

As a reply to the Democrats, it is what was expected.

Both parties enunciate the same objectives, with only a few important differences as to methods.

The GOP, for instance, plumps for straight tax reductions. The Democrats would go about it primarily through increased exemptions.

The GOP promises to work for an agricultural market situation in which farm prices would attain parity through natural processes. The Democrats promise to pay in cash, whatever happens to the processes.

Israel

The GOP promises to defend the state of Israel by force if necessary. The Democrats promise to send arms directly.

Such things are matters of approach rather than substance, although the farm and natural resources planks do involve ideological factors.

Indeed, the question of degree of governmental intervention in economic processes seems to be the one fundamental issue remaining between the parties.

It remained for Rep. Joe Martin to point that up, as the platforms did not, with his claim that the Republicans had stopped the enactment of the "socialist state."

There'll be a lot of fussing over this terminology, but the issue is there.

It is not so great or so well-defined, however, as in former years. The tussle in the Democratic party this year has been over this issue. And, while nobody is going to call Adlai Stevenson a reactionary, the younger "modern" played a growing power as against the New Dealism of the old liners. Lyndon Johnson, one of the moderate leaders, used to be, as a member of the House, a hot

State To Receive Bids On Eight Bridges In County

REP. VAN D. YETTER said last night that he had been advised by Joseph J. Lawler, secretary of highways, that the State will receive bids on Friday, Sept. 14 for the construction of eight bridges over Monroe County streams.

All eight of the bridges were destroyed a year ago in the flood which swept through this area. Also slated to be open for bids is the construction of one metal pipe arch culvert over a flood-damaged stream.

The bridges are located in Barrett and Pocono Townships. Included in the advertising for bids will be the following bridges for replacement and reconstruction:

Pocono

Three bridges in Pocono Township. Two of these are located over Pocono Creek northwest of Tannersville; the other over Bulters Run southeast of Tannersville. Highway locations: Legislative Routes 45024, Section 2; 45024, spur section 2 and 45081, section 1.

Two bridges in Pocono Township. Both running over Swiftwater Creek east and west of Swiftwater. Highway locations: On Legislative Routes 168, Section 13 and 171, Section 7; Traffic Routes 611 and 940. Bids also will include grading for removal of existing temporary bridge approaches.

Two bridges in Barrett Township. One runs over Buck Hill Creek; the other over a tributary of Buck Hill Creek southwest of Coveville. Highway locations: On Legislative Route 45070, Section 2.

Bridge and culvert in Barrett Township. A bridge running over Mill Creek and a metal plate pipe arch culvert over Rattlesnake Creek in that township. Highway locations: On Legislative Routes 171, Section 9 and 324, Section 6; Traffic Routes 90 and 390.

New Dealer. Things in the Democratic party have changed some. More and more the debates between the parties boil down to the question of who can do it best.

$400 Damage Results From Accident

AN ESTIMATED $400 damage was done to two trucks in collision yesterday morning off Route 209 about eight miles east of East Stroudsburg.

Stroudsburg State police said two persons were slightly injured in the accident and gave these names: Betty Lou Thorne, Trenton, N. J., possible back injury and Edward Howey, East Stroudsburg RD 1, cuts on the right eye and cheek.

Police said the accident occurred when a truck driven by Melvin H. Place, 18 of Bushkill, ran off an embankment, back on the highway and out of control then crashed into a second truck driven by Neil B. Murphy, 19 of Kunkletown RD.

A moving picture on the Grand Canyon was shown as the program at the meeting. The local MORA Club will be entertained by the ladies at the meeting next week when refreshments will be provided.

Safety Patrols To Reach Top Strength

AN ARMY of more than 650,000 boys and girls of the School Safety Patrol will be reporting for duty at school crossings throughout the United States as schools reopen this semester.

The American Automobile Association, one of the principle founders of the Patrol movement, estimates that more of these youngsters will be serving as safety guardians in the coming school year than at any time in the Patrol's 34-year history.

Andrew J. Sordani, president of the AAA, says that the School Safety Patrols, more than any other single factor, are responsible for the traffic death rate of school children in the 5- to 14-year-old age group being cut in half during the past 34 years, while the death rate for all other age groups nearly doubled.

More Active

"With the Patrols more active than ever before," Mr. Sordani stated, "the 1956-57 school year should be one of the safest for school children from the standpoint of traffic accidents."

The motor club official deplored the fact that all school children do not get adequate protection. He said that if Patrol protection were to be extended to every elementary grade pupil, there should be nearly one and one-half million on duty this fall.

Nevertheless, the Patrols have really done an outstanding job wherever they have been established, and in recent years parents are getting even further assurance that their children will be well protected while walking to school by the presence of a relatively new force of "safety sentinels"—the women crossing guards.

The AAA is getting a continuous flow of reports from motor clubs around the country on the establishment of women crossing guard units in cities and towns. However, motor club officials point out that these adult guards are not intended to replace school safety patrols—rather, they work with the youngsters to form a "safety team."

Operation Rules

Under the "Standard Rules for the Operation of School Safety Patrols," published by the AAA in cooperation with leading school officials, police, and civic groups—the patrol boys and girls are required to stay on the sidewalk to guide children. The Patrols are never supposed to attempt to direct traffic.

In most places where adult guards are serving, they have the authority to direct vehicular traffic and often they also can make arrests or issue traffic tickets. Thus, when the two units work together a very high degree of traffic safety is achieved.

Collection On Display

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (AP)—F. Joseph O'Neill's collection of 4,000 political campaign buttons went on display in a Rockefeller Center bank window this week, but O'Neill believes the buttons are mainly good for collecting. "It has yet to be proved," said O'Neill, "that they ever elected a candidate or influenced even a single ballot."

Building Program In Territory

A DOUBLE-barrelled building program has already been started in the Stroud Union District. One phase of this program is a brand new grade school—to be called the Arlington Heights Elementary School—in Stroud township. The second is a bi-winged addition to the present union district high school in Stroudsburg.

The East Stroudsburg Area Jointure has drawn up plans for a new $2 million junior-senior high building. Work has not begun on this. But the plans are nearly complete and the starting date, in terms of educational measurements, is "just around the corner."

The new Pocono Mountain Jointure, which combines eight districts from the mountain region, is on its way to a new, centralized high school to serve students in all of its eight areas. It will take time, but the jointure has been formed and the first steps have been taken.

Pattern

No clear-cut pattern for the future can be seen in the early days of this school year. But one thing will become increasingly obvious.

A rapidly-growing regiment of children needs space in which to live and breathe and learn. If the population continues to increase, and there is no indication whatever that it will not do so, based on birth figures for recent months—then Monroe county education will have to grow with those children, physically and in size.

That means more children, more facilities, more teachers, more new equipment, more textbooks—and more money for schools in the days to come.

This is the basic, hard core of the educational lesson Monroe County adults have assigned for them, this year and years from now.

What kind of educational system Monroe County maintains in those coming days will depend, in large part, on how mom and dad to their homework.

START SAVINGS ACCOUNTS FOR YOUR CHILDREN

It is easy to forget the simple educational things that any parents may pass on to their children... for example, the lessons they may learn from having their own savings accounts. The easiest way to help any child to understand money is to first open a savings account in your own name at this bank; then open one for each of your children. It requires only a few minutes, and you will be teaching them the valuable lesson of systematic savings.

Nearly Half Of Teachers Make Between $3,600-$4,200

NEARLY HALF OF MONROE County's teachers make salaries ranging from $3,600 to $4,200 yearly.

A breakdown of salary figures on record at the county superintendent's office and prepared by assistant superintendent Walter Sebring show these brackets:

Harold C. Kessinger

Nine teachers made the minimum level from $400 to $3,000 yearly; 40 are in the $3,000-$3,600 bracket; 80 teachers make from $3,600 to $4,200 annually; 35 teachers are in the $4,200 to $4,600 income category; 13 make from $4,600 to $5,000 each year and 15 make from $5,000 to $10,000 yearly.

Higher Annual income is higher in the secondary school teaching level. Of the 95 grade school teachers: Five make from $400 to $3,000; 25 from $3,000 to $3,600; 49 from $3,600 to $4,200; 12 from $4,200 to $4,600; four from $4,600 to $5,000.

Totals for high school teachers: Four in the minimum bracket; 15 make from $3,000 to $3,600; 13 from $3,600 to $4,200; 23 from $4,200 to $4,600; eight make from $4,600 to $5,000 and four make from $5,000 to $10,000.

Of the eight supervising principals, one is in the $4,600 to $5,000 bracket; the remaining seven are paid from $5,000 to $10,000. All four administrators in the county school office made between $5,000 and $10,000 yearly.

Median pay scale for teachers, excluding principals: $3,733.33 for grade school; $4,080 for secondary teachers.

Polk Releases Schedule KRESGEVILLE—Polk Township High School yesterday announced its calendar for the 1956-57 school year.

A teachers meeting will be held at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 4, with classes starting at 8:45 a.m. the following day.

Remainder of the school calendar will include a teachers institute on Monday, Sept. 24; Thanksgiving vacation from noon Wednesday, Nov. 21, to Nov. 26; school holiday, Monday, Dec. 3; Christmas vacation, noon Friday, Dec. 21, until Wednesday, Jan. 2.

Child Study Dr. F. Gerton Morgan, assistant director of the institute of child study at the University of Maryland will work with elementary school teachers on "Understanding the Elementary School Child" and with high school instructors on the same basic theme applied to their student age groups.

Whole group will reconvene at 3 p.m. in the college auditorium to hear Harold C. Kessinger, former New Jersey judge, and editor, publisher, educator, bank president and world traveler, talk on "Architects of a Better World."

This speech will be followed by local branch meetings of the Pennsylvania State Education Association.

According to Walter H. Sebring, assistant Monroe County superintendent of Schools, Dr. Charles H. Boehm, newly-appointed superintendent of public instruction in the State, has been invited to attend the program and make a brief address. No confirmation has yet been received from Boehm's office, Sebring said.

Clark Raps Duff Stand

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22 (AP)—Joseph S. Clark, Jr., former Philadelphia Mayor now running for the U.S. Senate on the Democratic ticket, today sharply criticized his Republican opponent, U. S. Sen. James H. Duff, for his stand on a civil rights plank at the GOP national convention.

Clark said Duff was guilty of a "grand stand play" in demanding a strong civil rights plank. Duff is a member of the platform committee at the GOP conclave.

Pen Argyl School Sets Opening Date

PEN ARGYL—Pen Argyl Area Joint School will begin its 1956-57 school year on Sept. 5 under the administration of Dr. William E. Muth, supervising principal, and Allen Jackson, principal. The teachers are to report on Sept. 4 for organizational meetings and room assignments.

New teachers reporting will be Robert Megill and Willard Schadel. Megill, graduate of Mansfield State Teachers College, will be discharged from the Army tomorrow and will serve as band director. Schadel, teacher at Pen Argyl for nine years, will return to Pen Argyl after teaching a semester at Central Bucks High School in Norristown. He will teach science and mathematics.

Also new to the system will be Mrs. Clifford Ronalds, who has taken the place of the retired Miss Mary Smedley as school nurse.

The new addition to the system will be the new title, Pen Argyl Area Joint Schools. In 1951 the school became a jointure in the junior and senior schools only and consequently the name Pen Argyl Area Joint High Schools, but during the past summer, the elementary schools also were included in the jointure.

Change Dr. Muth also announced that the following teachers will have their certificate changed from temporary to permanent classification: Harvey Rehig, Blaine Strunk, Richard Wolford, Edward Palmer and David Godshall. He also announced that the following teachers have taken graduate work this past summer or will be taking graduate work in the fall: Mrs. Frieda Kindt, Mrs. Allen Jackson, Miss Arlean Bonney, Mrs. Thelma Herd, Mrs. Dorothy Budge, Mrs. Bernada Hokstad, Lloyd Newbaker, Edward Palmer, Blaine Strunk, Richard Wolford and David Godshall. Mrs. Dorothy Stopp toured Europe for the third consecutive Summer.

The following were named coaches for the 1956-57 season: Rudolph Penza, Richard Wolford, Blaine Strunk, John Lakey and Harry Mervine, football; Edward

Male Teachers Outnumber Women In High School Ranks

THE OLDER YOU GET, in education at least, the more you find the balance of power rests in the male sex.

This is one conclusion the casual observer may draw from a study of teaching staff lists in Monroe County.

Take elementary schools, for example. Here there are a total of 95 persons employed: 80 of them are female and 15 are male.

High School In high school there are 85 persons employed: Only 31 female and the majority, 54, male. All the supervising principals (8) in the county are male and all four county office administrators are men.

When it comes to an analysis of the overall picture, however, the woman regains the upper hand. There are a total of 192 teachers and administrators in the county whose work is guided by the county superintendent's office: 111 of them are women; 81 are men.

A WORD OF WARNING To Those Tempted To QUIT SCHOOL:

Many of the high school students of The Stroudsburgs and the Pocono Mountain Area obtained jobs when school closed last Spring. They enjoyed the sense of responsibility which those jobs provided; and they found that the money earned allowed them to buy luxuries which their families could not provide.

Unfortunately, this experience has in the past caused some of the teenagers to decide against going back to school. Those who don't think further ahead than tomorrow or next week have decided that continuing to work will give them the money for the cars and entertainment which, at the moment, seem most important.

But the boy or girl who does quit school will regret it later—when it's too late to do anything about it. A little extra education often makes the tremendous difference between success and mediocrity. The world today wants and needs trained and educated men and women. Go back to school . . . go on through college, prepare yourself to take your place (a worthwhile place) in the world of today . . . tomorrow!

How Much Does A Good Education Cost?

You can measure a certain portion of your education costs, like tuition, books, laboratory fees, etc., but the total value you get for the dollars invested in education is best realized in the long-range view. A good education will make more of the good things in life available to you. It's a fact, greater earning power belongs to those who have more thoroughly prepared themselves for their lifework. A good education is like a Security Trust Savings Account: The more you put into it today, the better it will take care of you and your family tomorrow!

Fourteen 4-H Clubs Join For County-Wide Picnic

There were 115 4-H Club members of both the home economics and agricultural 4-H Club, with their leaders, held an all-day outing yesterday at Brainerd Presbyterian Center, Snyder'sville. County leaders, Miss Margaret McLaren and Robert Stauffer were in charge. About 65 parents joined them for supper and closing activities.

Postponed from Tuesday, the picnic was held in perfect weather and with almost 100 per cent attendance from the 14 clubs active in the county this summer.

The outing started early with the clubs arriving right on the set hour of 10:30 a. m. with swimming, games and handicraft in the morning, and sandwiches and a light lunch eaten by the groups at noon.

The afternoon schedule also included swimming, games, handicraft and boating from 1 until 4. At 4 o'clock a scavenger hunt involving all of the club members sent them on a thirty-minute hunt for such items as a white penny, the autograph of an unmarried club leader, clean shined shoe, tape measure and the license number of the oldest car.

During this period their adult leaders took a well earned rest since they had supervised the swimming, handicraft, boating, games, through the day. Sally

Miss Stolz and Mr. Richard Smith, a member of the choir, have announced their engagement and the choir presented them with gifts in honor of their approaching marriage in September.

Refreshments were served by the host and hostess and son, Michael, to the guests of honor and the members of the choir of Salem Evangelical and Reformed Church, Pocono Lake, on a recent evening.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

It's a good thing neither Les nor I had a blue pencil when we went out to get a picture of the 4-H Club picnic or we might have been trampled in the rush. We arrived right in the middle of the scavenger hunt and that blue pencil was mighty hard to get.

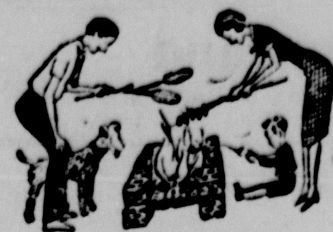

Another item which became downright impossible was the signature of the unmarried leader — who disappeared on an errand to town just before the hunt began. However, they were having themselves a gala time, and when we left one group was risking life and limb to get an oak leaf, though the list clearly specified elm.

Another gala day is in store today when the Shawnee Women golfers join the Glen Brook women for a Kicker's handicap which should be quite a change from the Island Open which held another session yesterday. A change in atmosphere if not in my score.

One thing would prove handy these days is a portable clock rack on golf courses. Starting in the early morning hours with the winter chill in the air and the fog still close to the ground, the golfers put on everything but their parkas. Then as the game and the day warm up they start shedding, piece by piece.

Complicates the life of a caddy having to watch the flight of the ball with enough sweaters and jackets draped around him to start a rummage sale.

But all-day shoppers face the same problem. It's a little beforehand for Indian Summer, anyway.

When our candy department was rushed yesterday at noon hour, I attempted to lend a hand, but it's usually tough going when you're not too well acquainted with stock and prices. I was particularly impressed, however, with the consistent calls for Whitman's one pound Sampler at 2.00, and by the selection of paper napkins and tally cards which seemed to delight some of our city visitors. I was also amused by the tiny customers who can't resist fondling the Dinky toys on an adjacent display case, and are baffled when they find them cemented down. Their expressions seem to say, "Now how could anything THAT little be so heavy?"

On a recent radio program, Marion Swartz, one Wyckoff college consultant, endorsed the two-piece knit dress as one of the smartest and most versatile any girl could own. We're happy to announce that there is now a larger assortment than ever in our Sportswear department—chic blacks and smart colors, all beautifully styled and thrifty budget-minded. . . . Just called to Doug Gordon as he passed the doorway, asking whether or not his McGregor jackets for boys had arrived. "Only the hats," he said, "and they're worth seeing."

The hats are slipover jackets of nylon fleece with unusual neck-and-waistline touches, and knit trim. These are in red trimmed with black, and are smart adaptations of the white and black jacket modeled by Bill Wells in our recent McGregor fashion show. The price is 14.98. . . . Helen Levy's department carries one of the finest full-skirted, fitted-top petticoats for little girls I've ever seen, and many mothers, other than myself, must admire its daintiness and rugged wearability for she's been sold out again. Helen tells me they have been re-ordered and are due to arrive any day—so wait a bit longer and buy the lingerie that'll do most for your little girl's ego AND for her "swirl-aways" perfection. . . . Marion Leedom's department has an easy answer to table crumbing. It is a rolling brush, encased in floral-decorated plastic, that works on the same principle as a carpet sweeper, and is emptied in much the same way. She also stocks pretty fan-shaped silver crumbing trays, complete with a brush that fastens snugly to the tray top when not in use. Both types retail at 1.00 and are among the items you might jot down now on your list for Christmas stocking stuffing. . . . Another gift that might be purchased now is the ever-dainty Chantilly Body Tone, just half of its usual 2.50 price. Big, big bottles are retailing briefly for 1.25, and any woman would welcome one. Our cosmetic department also offers a regular 2.00 bottle of Helene Curtis Hair Spray for 1.69. Incidentally, whatever you buy today saves you money and helps our sales people make their quota during our Back to School promotion. . . . Pagnik Maudie Walton: She should be told that we have a traitor in our midst. ## Two Fresh Peach Pie Recipes In Season

By Cecily Brownstone Associated Press Food Editor

Peach Pie comes two luscious ways: deep-dish and two-crust. Take your choice. Serve either variety with a pitcher of heavy cream or scoops of vanilla ice cream and no one will complain.

Deep-Dish Fresh Peach Pie

Ingredients: 6 to 7 cups ripe sliced peeled fresh peaches (about 4 pounds), 1½ cups sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca, ¼ teaspoon almond extract (if desired), 3 tablespoons butter or margarine, pastry for topping (using 1 cup flour).

Method: Place peaches in a baking dish (about 10 by 6 by 2 inches). Stir sugar, salt, tapioca and—if used—almond extract together; sprinkle over peaches. Dot with butter. Cover with pastry rolled ¼-inch thick into a rectangle 2 inches wider and 2 inches longer than the baking dish. Trim, turn under, seal and flute edge. Cut several gashes in pastry to allow for escape of steam. Bake in hot (425 degrees) oven 45 minutes or until crust is lightly browned. Serve warm. Makes 8 servings.

Note: The amount of pastry specified makes a thin topping; use more and roll out thicker if you prefer a thick crust. To garnish pie, cut 2 penches with leaves out of a small piece of pastry; place in a small pie pan or on aluminum foil; bake at same time as pie but watch because baking for cut-out will be a matter of minutes. At serving time, place baked cut-out on center top of pie crust.

Two-Crust Fresh Peach Pie

Ingredients: Pastry for two-crust 9-inch pie, 5 cups ripe peeled sliced fresh peaches (about 3 pounds), 1 tablespoon lemon juice, ¼ teaspoon vanilla, ½ cup sugar, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 table-spoons cornstarch, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine.

Method: Line a 9-inch pie plate with pastry rolled to ¼-inch thickness. Sprinkle peaches with lemon juice and vanilla. Stir sugar, salt and cornstarch together; mix with peaches. Turn into pastry-lined pie plate; dot with butter. Cover with remaining pastry rolled ¼-inch thick and 1 inch larger than diameter of top of pie plate. Trim, turn under and flute edge. Cut several gashes in the top to allow for escape of steam. Bake in a hot (425 degrees) oven 45 minutes or until crust is browned. Serve warm.

Pastry Tips

Try chilling your pie dough before rolling. This refrigerator treatment sometimes helps to make pastry flaky.

Be a miser when you add water to the pie dough; an abundance of liquid usually produces a tough crust. When you add the water, sprinkle it gradually over the mixture as you work the dough with a fork and use a light hand.

Be a spendthrift when you add shortening to pie dough; a little extra often helps produce an especially flaky crust.

Want your pie to have a lovely look? Before baking, brush the top of the pastry with egg yolk mixed with a tablespoon of water. For a sweet topping, brush pastry top—before baking—with milk and then sprinkle with granulated sugar.

Peachy Ideas

FOR ICE CREAM—Peel and slice peaches thin; sweeten to taste with sugar and add a little vanilla for that extra oomph. Serve over vanilla ice cream.

Feller Sees Greatness For Score

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (P)—"He'll get his share of no-hitters," said Bob Feller today about teammate Herb Score, the current strikeout king of the majors.

"I've never seen Herb so fast and his curve was great too," said Feller, former strikeout champ and holder of the modern record of three no-hit games as well as 12 one-hitters.

Feller was discussing Score's two-hit shutout of the Yankees last night. The 23-year-old Indian southpaw smothered a possible no-hitter in the eighth inning by Elston Howard's lead-off double.

Development

"Southpaws usually develop late," said the 36-year-old Feller. "Herb is getting better and stronger game by game. He'll get his share of no-hitters."

Score was disappointed at missing the no-hitter but still jubilant over his second straight shutout of the Yankees.

The 6-2, 185-pounder disclosed that he had added the slider—called the "nickel curve" by big leaguers—to his repertoire and that he had thrown it for the second time in a game last night.

"I had never thrown the slider before but I saw the other fellows using it and decided to try it out," said Herb. "I threw it for the first time in a game against Harvey Kuenn in Detroit Thursday. I decided then I would use it but for no more than five pitches in a game. I threw five of them against the Yanks."

"I struck out (Mickey) Mantle the first time with the second slider I've ever thrown. Jim (Jim Hegan, Cleveland catcher) called for it and I said to myself, 'If he's got enough guts to call for it I'm not going to shake him off.' I almost fell off the mound throwing it, too."

Globetrotters Meet

A MEETING of the Globetrotters League will be held at the Pocono Bowling Center today at 8 p.m. The alleys will be open for members who wish to roll practice games.

Virginia Tech athletes won five Southern Conference titles during the 1955-56 school year. Techmen won titles in wrestling, golf, rifle and indoor and outdoor track.

Yankees Split Series With Indians As Rosen Commits Pair Of Costly Errors

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (P)—Two errors on the same play by third baseman Al Rosen cost the Cleveland Indians a 3-2 defeat to the New York Yankees, before a crowd of 23,584 today at the stadium.

The Yankees, by splitting the two-game series, restored their first-place lead over Cleveland in the American League to 8½ games.

Redlegs Top Pirates To Retain Hope

CINCINNATI, Aug. 22 (P)—The Cincinnati Redlegs defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates 6-3 today to hang up their ninth consecutive victory over Bobby Bragan's faltering club.

Had the Pirates fielded as well as they hit, the outcome might have been different. They chased Joe Nuxhall in the seventh after pounding out 11 safeties.

But they allowed the National League third-place team three unearned runs, which made it easy for Cincinnati, even in the face of only six hits. Pittsburgh made four errors.

Starter

Bob Friend started for Pittsburgh, but went out in the sixth inning for a pinch hitter. He was relieved by Johnny O'Brien. It was his 13th defeat against 14 victories.

Cincinnati scored two unearned runs in the first inning on Frank Thomas' error, two infield singles and a couple of fielders' choices. The Redlegs counted once more in the third on Gus Bell's 24th home run of the season. Three more were added in the fifth on errors by Bill Mazeroski and Dale Long and doubles by Johnny Temple and Frank Robinson.

Pittsburgh counted once in the third on Mazeroski's single, a double by Hank Foiles and Lee Walls' fly ball.

It scored another marker in the fourth on Roberto Clement's double and Long's single.

In the sixth, the Pirates scored on singles by Bill Virdon, Clemente and Dick Groat.

Yanks Purchase Wilson

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 (P)—The New York Yankees today purchased the contract of reserve outfielder George Wilson from the New York Giants. Wilson, who will be 30 on Aug. 30, was used mainly as a pinch hitter by the Giants and compiled a .132 average-nine hits in 68 times up.

Pale Hose Win Over Bosox, 6-3

BOSTON, Aug. 22 (P)—Ron Northey's sacrifice fly and Fred Hatfield's two-run homer in the eighth inning made possible southpaw Billy Pierce's 18th victory of the season today as the torrid Chicago White Sox rallied to beat Boston 6-3.

With one out in the eighth, the White Sox caught up with loser Willard Nixon, Walt Dropo singled and made third on Luis Aparicio's double. Northey batted for Pierce to drive in the deciding run with a sacrifice fly and Hatfield followed with his fifth homer of the year.

Chicago started out as if to send Nixon to an early shower. Lead-off man Hatfield singled to open the game. Fox beat out a bunt and both scored on Doby's double off the left-field wall.

Pierce had trouble with his control and Boston got one run back in the bottom of the first when Dick Giere singled behind a pair of walks.

In the third, Boston went ahead 3-2 as Ted Williams, Jackie Jensen, and Jim Piersall singled and Ted Lepcio doubled.

NBA Favors Title Bout For Moore

HAVANA, Aug. 22 (P)—The National Boxing Assn. has gone on record as favoring a heavyweight title shot for Archie Moore as soon as possible to prevent the division from "stagnating."

The NBA, at its annual convention here, adopted a proposal made by Commissioner Abe J. Greene last night in which he recommended a series of steps so that a successor to retired heavyweight champion Rocky Marciano could be named within the shortest possible time.

Greene's resolution provided: 1. That Archie Moore is No. 1 on the heavyweight list and that Floyd Patterson is right behind him. The winner of a fight between the two would be recognized as world champion.

2. That the NBA make an immediate inquiry into the condition of Patterson's injured right hand to find out how soon he will be able to meet Moore.

3. If Patterson can not fight soon, the winner of the Sept. 26 bout in Pittsburgh between L-b Baker and Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson should fight Moore for the title on the condition that Baker or Jackson showed enough class to warrant a title bout.

4. That if the Jackson-Baker winner was impressive enough to fight Moore, the winner and Moore would be required to sign contracts for the ultimate victor to box Patterson for the title within 90 days if Patterson's condition permitted.

History Will Repeat at Jamestown

HISTORY of nationwide significance is being re-created this summer along the James river, in Virginia, where preparations are booming for next year's commemoration of the landing of the first permanent English colony at Jamestown in 1607. James fort is being reconstructed. The Glasshouse has been reconstructed. Beyond it is the rebuilt isthmus connecting the mainland with Jamestown island, as in the days of the colony. Colonial parkway is being extended from Williamsburg along the James river to Jamestown at a cost of $4,600,000. When completed, this parkway will link historic Yorktown, Williamsburg and Jamestown with one of the most scenic parkways in the nation. The first representative government in the New World was established at Jamestown before the Pilgrim Fathers landed at Plymouth.

Pennsylvania Faces Two Big Problems

HARRISBURG, Aug. 22 (AP)—The twin problems of increased pupil enrollment and a shortage of teachers is a problem that faces school authorities today as they prepared for opening of the 1956-57 school term.

Some 2½ million school children will return to class rooms the first week in September, an increase of 3.1 per cent from last year's enrollment.

Staff

The professional staff needed, including administrators and teachers, was estimated at 71,800 or about 1,800 more than last year.

The Dept. of Public Instruction estimated public school enrollment for the new term at 1,832,000. Including non-public schools, the total was estimated at 2,359,542 with 1,582,000 elementary pupils and 777,600 high school students.

Since 1953 when public school enrollment was 1,649,000 the figures have been on the increase. But this year's three per cent jump from last year compares with a 4.2 per cent increase for the previous year.

However, Dr. Carl D. Morne-wood, chief of the department's child accounting and research division, said that birth statistics are up eight per cent from last year, indicating a continued problem of increased school enrollment.

The problem of finding enough qualified teachers faces most of the 2,500 school districts across the state.

Dr. John K. Trayer, assistant director of the department's bureau of teacher certification and education, said that the problem was not only one of supply but of distribution of the supply.

Feeling

Trayer said he did not feel the new teacher salary law, raising minimums and granting an additional $200 raise for the 1956-57 school year, "produced any appreciable results that you can put a finger on toward solving the teacher shortage."

"It is a disturbing factor that too often is overlooked — many teachers just won't go where they can be used. There is quite a group that will not be available to teach because they will not go where they are needed," Trayer said.

Trayer gave as reasons for this situation the salaries offered by various districts, the particular areas of the state the district happens to be located in and the distance of the district from the teacher's home.

Same Fields

He said that once again "it appears the shortages are in the same fields as in the past—such subjects as library science, home-making, science and mathematics." One reason for this, he explained, is that teachers in these fields can get into other work so easily and earn better pay.

He estimated that there will be 3,000 elementary and 2,000 high school teaching positions to be filled during the coming school year. An estimated 1,600 persons will be graduated with training for elementary school work while another 3,500 will graduate with training for high school teaching.

However, Dr. Morne-wood estimated that based on past experience the state can expect only about 1,100 of the new elementary teachers and 1,800 of the high school teaching graduates to take jobs in the state.

Tools Of Learning Help

MANY TOOLS of learning that children need should and can be acquired before teacher points out their value.

If there isn't a good dictionary in the home of the school child, there should be. A good encyclopedia is a "learning tool" that will serve for years.

With education at all levels taking children's minds around the world during class room instruction, every school child's home should have an atlas and if possible a globe.

Educators Receive Building Advice

YORK, Pa., Aug. 22—Educators from three states were told last week that fresh thinking and a break with outmoded traditions are needed to fill America's needs for new school buildings in the second half of the 20th century.

Speaking at a Temple University Workshop for school administrators and board members in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware, C. S. Buchart, president of Buchart Engineering Corporation, York, architectural and engineering firm, said that rising construction costs and the phenomenal increase in school population demands exhaustive research into new methods and materials.

Calling particular attention to what he termed the overriding need for realism in school planning, Buchart said that school building today is often excessively expensive because of traditions restricting the flexibility of design and choice of materials which are needed to produce economical construction. Some school boards, he said, place too great an emphasis on what they want rather than on what they actually need. The result, he said, is that a school building program may imitate one in a neighboring community without being a practical realization of its own specific requirements.

Maintenance

Buchart said that the need for reducing maintenance and upkeep costs of school buildings must be one of the primary considerations in school planning. The maintenance-free building, he stated, has become an economic necessity. Citing examples from the experience of his own firm, Buchart pointed out that imaginative use of new materials makes the completely maintenance-free school building a reality. Initial costs are surprisingly little more than conventional materials, he said, and studies show that they are far more economical over the life span of the building.

Comparing the cost of school buildings with industrial and commercial buildings, Buchart said that schools generally cost much more per square foot than their counterparts of comparable quality in private business. Explaining one reason for this as the industrial architect's great flexibility and freedom from traditional restrictions, Buchart said that progress is being made to hold school building costs in line. One major factor under consideration is the shape of school buildings, which have generally followed the long and narrow floor plan to comply with existing codes. When buildings are kept as close as possible to the square and large rectangle, considerable savings result, he said. Citing the example of modern industrial structures, Buchart stated that emphasis is placed on economical bay spacings rather than on maximum daylight though both industrial and school buildings require artificial lighting and ventilating systems, industry gains a compact structure where the school usually results in a sprawling structure. Function In discussing the function of the school building in the years ahead, Buchart stated that a primary concern of school men is to provide a building which will be in use for more hours of the day. The challenge to the architects, he said, is to design multi-purpose school buildings which will provide educational and recreational facilities for the entire community and at every age level. He envisioned more flexibility through use of movable partitions in classroom sections of the building to create classrooms that can be enlarged or reduced and thus provide a wider variety of uses.

The Temple Workshop was sponsored by the Educational Service Bureau of Temple University during the week of August 13th through August 18th under the chairmanship of Ross L. Neagley, Professor of Education. The Workshop included presentations by leading specialists who discussed every phase of the school building program and the various roles played by the architect, the construction engineer, the building consultant, the bond attorney and the financing organization. Panel discussions were held during the afternoon sessions in which each of the visiting educators were invited to submit their own community school building problems for discussion. The Workshop is expected to be an annual event.

Opportunities For Careers Reach Peak

CAREER opportunities for the educated have reached a peak in the history of the nation and of the world, and the future holds the promise of even better prospects for every child who will go back to school this fall.

More good jobs are looking for people to fill them than there are properly educated and trained people who are looking for jobs. The demand will accelerate over time as the frontiers of science are expanded, and the standard of living in America is raised still higher.

This is true at every level of human activity and in every field of employment, whether it be business, industry, consumer services, the professions, art or education itself.

So great is the need in all fields that special inducements are offered young graduates of colleges and high schools, including "earning while learning" positions.

Though for long, far seeing executives of important industries have been sending scouts to colleges in search of talent, the invasion reached its peak this past year.

Level

And at the high school level, local businessmen in many cities have engaged in urging 'teen agers who may not plan on going to college, to stay at home and go to work for home town business.

Though the greatest number of career opportunities appear to be in the field of engineering and science, expansion of business has created heavy demand for talent to be trained for executive positions. More need for good advertising men and women has sent publications and agencies on a search for bright young folk.

The mechanically inclined youngsters who love to tinker with cars and who can dream of nothing more exciting than becoming experts in automobile maintenance have jobs waiting for them. Those who enjoy association with merchandise and people can have careers in selling. The demand for office workers makes way for more and more secretaries.

While business and industry seeks specially trained people for some jobs—and uniquely talented ones for others, there is a growing emphasis on the cultural background of the individuals they hire. This places more than ordinary emphasis on schooling in the arts, history and the social sciences.

Rewards Of Eating

REWARDS of eating a good school-day breakfast can include improved ability to concentrate. On the other hand, an inadequate breakfast can be the reason for lowered grades and morning listlessness.

Parents Must Be Helpful To Children

By George J. Hecht

TODAY WHEN there are crying shortages of skilled help—draftsmen, laboratory technicians, engineering aides, and other technicians—when, on the other hand, there are fewer teachers than are needed to meet the challenge of our schools—it is our duty both as parents, interested in the welfare of our children, and as citizens, interested in the welfare of our country, to help set our youngsters on the right track.

Started Early

As parents, we have a two-fold responsibility: To cooperate with the school authorities in informing our children about new and expanding occupational fields, and to help our children relate their own abilities to these careers.

Such vocational guidance can be started very early in a child's life by introducing him to people in varied fields of work, by giving him career books suitable for his age level, taking him on field trips, even choosing toys that will forward his career.

Bear in mind, that a child's career should not be imposed upon him. We should keep our own ambitions for our children in check if we want our children to be happy in their chosen work.

There are some 40,000 different jobs in our economic structure. Each is important, no matter whether it is administrative, professional, clerical, skilled, semi-skilled or unskilled. No one particular type should be over-emphasized to a child. His personality will lead him to the work he thinks he will like.

Excellent Help

Some excellent help for parents trying to assist their children in finding and developing career interests, has been developed by George Davenal, placement director of Queens College.

He points out that we are not born with occupational interests, we learn them; and that to demand of a child what he wants to be when he grows up is unrealistic unless we have encouraged him all along the way, to try to find out.

He advises that the child be encouraged to reveal his potential during the growing up period, through home-school cooperation, testing techniques, tryout work experiences, and participation in extra curricular school programs and community activity.

Check Automobile

ONLY AUTOMOBILES in perfect operating condition and under perfect control can be relied upon to come to that sudden safe stop that can avoid an accident, when an irresponsible youngster darts out into traffic without warning.

There were 43,309 foreign citizens in the United States for educational purposes in 1955-56.

Assistance Toward Good Handwriting

THE SIX basic principles of good handwriting as set forth in the Handwriting Foundation's booklet entitled the "Second R," are as follows:

1. Watch out for tricky letters. Be sure to distinguish between e and l, i and r, l and f.
2. Watch out for tricky numbers. You must carefully differentiate between 1 and 7, as well as 3, 5 and 8.
3. Sit properly. Keep both forearms on the desk, push hips back and shoulders slightly forward.
4. Avoid tiring the hand. Keep palm and wrist down and don't turn the hand too far to the side.
5. Keep a good supply of writing tools in order, including of course, pens, pencils, paper and ink.
6. Carefully separate letters, space words, and, in general, pay attention to the way you write.

The Foundation's booklet is available free to those who write for a copy to 1426 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., or to the New York office at 130 East 59th St., New York 22, N. Y.

Colorful Gifts

OVERSIZE pillows co-eds can use on the floors of their rooms for seating gab-fest friends, can make colorful back to college gifts.

Sports Coats Popular

SPORTS COATS for boys play up medium tones, this fall. The combination of grey and brown in stripes and in tweedy effects will be popular.

Assist New Teacher

NOW THAT some school systems have as high as 30 percent of their staff new to their jobs each year, the American Association of School Administrators, has published a little booklet of suggestions on how to get the new teacher off to a good start.

Though primarily intended for school administrators, the booklet also points out that parents and all citizens have a stake in the objective. Knowing that parents are interested in their work and stand ready to help, the booklet points out, is a source of encouraging satisfaction to the new teacher.

Many authorities in the field urge parents to become friendly with teachers, volunteer help in special activities, and to participate in civic functions aimed at improving the stature of, and respect for teachers.

'Fish-Bowl' Schools Hard On Eyesight

CHICAGO, Aug. 22 (AP) — Advocates of audio-visual instruction in classrooms say the modern fish-bowl school house hinders this method of teaching and is a menace to children's eyesight.

"Architects are beginning to realize that the glass-walled school buildings of today should provide some means of light control," says Donald White of the National Audio Visual Assn.

"If we project the future of audio-visual teaching methods, we believe that in 10 years many schools will be out of date before they are even finished," he says.

White is a former professor of audio-visual methods at the University of Georgia. He is working to improve instruction in public schools.

"They have left out the darkening factor for the showing of educational films in classrooms," he says.

Claim

He claims that the 30-student teacher capacity now generally accepted by the profession could be increased two-fold by the use of film slides, motion pictures and tape recordings.

Los Angeles, Calif., now has made provisions for light control in its school building program, says Henry C. Ruark, Jr., of the University of Indiana, another expert in the field.

Audio-visual methods now are employed in 21,000 of 28,000 schools in the United States. Many possess one or more motion picture projectors and some operate as many as 30, he says.

Audio visual methods of instruction enable a 15 per cent increase in "take home learning, with as much as 35 per cent retention by some students," Ruark adds.

Some 10 states require schools to employ one or more instructors trained in audio-visual techniques. This will increase to 24 in a year, Ruark says.

Many schools create their own instruction films with available materials to reduce the cost of materials and to custom-design a specific course of instruction. Teachers often use block letters and magazine illustrations where school budgets do not provide for extensive film libraries, Ruark says.

College Man Setting Pace In Styles

SETTING THE style pace in back-to-school apparel for all age groups is the college man, now busily engaged in assembling the wardrobe that he will take back to the campus, this fall.

His basic requirements will include a couple of light tone, medium weight worsted or flannel suits. These, of course, will be styled in the "Ivy League" (natural lines) manner, still rated tops in college circles. To complete the picture, he'll take along a varied array of sports clothes and smart new items of outerwear.

The trend toward lighter and brighter colors gathers momentum for the swing into the fall and winter seasons. Charcoals are well on their way out to make room for the newly favored shades of Cambridge and banker's gray, tan, olive gray, green and blue.

Sportswear

In sportswear, the over-all casual look has been replaced by a stylish, tailored feeling, which despite its dressed up appearance, still gives a maximum of comfort.

Ivy League type blazer-stripe are a major fashion highlight in fall sports jackets, in which the lighter weight fabrics are strongly favored.

Waist length and finger-tip length jackets and short overcoats will rate high among college men this fall.

In the waist length jackets, top honors will go to the zip-front models in lightweight worsted fabrics, with check or shadow plaid designs. In fingertip length jackets, the favored fabrics will be covert tweed, flannel, gabardine and melton.

The wool sweater retains its strong popularity with college men, this fall, with the long-sleeved crew neck sweater still at the top of the list. The color story is twofold, with bold tones (mainly bright red, yellow and blue) vying with olive-tone greens and smoke grays.
